HOOVER IN KEYNOTE FINISH OF CAMPAIGN

SMITH PROPOSALS ON PROHIBITION AND FARM RELIEF SCORED

DECLARED TO BE "STATE SOCIALISM." WATERPOWER ALSO INCLUDED

CHARGES DEMOCRATS AS ABANDONING TENETS OF THEIR OWN PARTY

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Oct. 23.—Herbert Hoover had set the keynote for the wind-up of his presidential campaign today by branding as "state socialism" the prohibition, farm relief and waterpower proposals of his democratic opponent, Governor Alfred E. Smith.

He chose Smith's home city as the place and a huge crowd in Madison Square Garden as the audience before which to attack the democratic candidate's program last night in the most direct and outspoken fashion of his campaign, but without mentioning Smith.

Hoover charged the democrats with abandoning "the tenets of their own party" in this campaign. "They have revived, he declared, "a series of proposals which, if adopted, would be long step toward the abandonment of our American system and a surrender to the destructive operation of governmental conduct of commercial business."

Hoover's bold attack upon Smith's prohibition modification proposal in this state which has gone on record for a change in the prohibition laws was unexpected and dramatic.

"Because the country is faced with difficulty and doubt over certain national problems—that is, prohibition, farm relief and electrical power—our opponents propose that we must thrust government a long way into the businesses which give rise to these problems," Hoover said.

"In effect, they abandon the tenets of their own party and turn to state socialism as a solution of the difficulties presented by all three."

"It is proposed that we shall change from prohibition to the state purchase and sale of liquor. If their agricultural relief program means anything, it means that the government shall directly or indirectly buy and sell at fixed prices of agricultural products. And we are to go into the hydro-electrical power business."

"In other words, we are confronted with a huge program of government in business."

Hoover discussed prohibition no further than to denounce Smith's proposal, though Vice-President Dawes, who preceded him, gave some attention to it, declaring it is not an issue with the average citizen, though it will affect votes of many who feel strongly one way or the other. Continuance of prosperity, the vice-president declared in this, his first campaign speech, is the dominant issue.

Hoover then denounced government operation of commercial business in which he said he had experience.

"It is a false liberalism that interprets itself into the government operation of commercial business," he said, and argued that, even if it were efficient, which he denied, "the fundamental objection to it would remain unaltered and unabated."

It would destroy political equality, increase abuse and corruption, stifle initiative and invention, undermine the development of leadership, cramp and cripple the mental and spiritual energies of the people, extinguish equality and opportunity, and dry up the spirit of liberty and progress, he declared.

The republican candidate declared his position, however, did not mean that the government "is to part with one iota of its natural resources without complete protection to the public interest," and pledged himself to regulation of business to correct evils, to which he said the republican administration had committed itself.

Hoover touched upon public utilities, which have been brought prominently into the campaign picture by the federal trade commission's investigation of the so-called "power trust." The republican party, in establishing the principle of regulation, he said, insisted "upon the principle that when great public utilities were clothed with the security of partial monopoly, whether it be railways, power plants, telephones or what not, then there must be the fullest and most complete control of rates, services and finances by government or local agencies."

"It declared," he added, "that

'HUSH HUSH' CASE ENDS, SIR MAX BONN GRANTED DIVORCE

London, Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—Sir Max Bonn, millionaire British banker who was born in New York, was granted a divorce today from Lady Hilda Beatrix Bonn.

The divorce court granted Sir Max a decree nisi, on the ground of misconduct on the part of his wife.

Sir Max was born in New York in 1877, son of the late William B. Bonn. He has had a notable career in British merchant-financing and quasi-public service.

Because of the prominence of those involved, the case attracted wide interest. It was referred to as the "hush hush" case.

Thirteen lawyers fought the case, including seven eminent king's counsels, and it was estimated the lawyers' fees amounted to nearly $500,000.

these businesses must be conducted with glass pockets."

Hoover, in concluding, listed among his conceptions of America that it is a land "where every man shall be respected in the faith that his conscience and his heart direct him to follow."

In this campaign there is submitted to the American people a "question of fundamental principle," Hoover declared.

"That is: Shall we depart from the principles of our American political and economic system, upon which we have advanced beyond the rest of the world, in order to adopt methods based on principles destructive of its very foundations?"

"I should like to state to you the effect that this projection of government in business would have upon our system of self-government and our economic system."

"Let us first see the effect upon self-government. When the federal government undertakes to go into commercial business it must at once set up the organization and administration of that business, and it immediately finds itself in a labyrinth, every alley of which leads to the destruction of self-government," he said.

"The first problem of the government about to adventure in commercial business is to determine a method of administration. It must secure leadership and direction. Shall this leadership be chosen by political agencies or shall we make it elective?"

"Government, in order to avoid the possible incompetence, corruption and tyranny of too great authority in individuals entrusted with commercial business, inevitably turns to boards and commissions. To make sure that there are checks and balances, each member of such boards and commissions must have equal authority. Each has his separate responsibility to the public, and at once we have the conflict of idea and lack of decision which would ruin any commercial business. It has contributed greatly to the demoralization of our shipping business. Moreover, these commissions must be representative of different sections and different political parties, so that at once we have an entire blight upon co-ordinated action within their ranks which destroys any possibility of effective administration."

"Thus every time the federal government goes into a commercial business, 531 senators and congressmen become the actual board of directors of that business. Every time a state government goes into business one or two hundred state senators and legislators become the actual directors of that business. Even if they were supermen, and if there were not politics in the United States, no body of such numbers could competently direct decision, and action."

"When the federal government undertakes to go into business, the state governments are at once deprived of control and taxation of that business; when a state government undertakes to go into business, it at once deprives the municipalities of taxation and control of that business."

"There is no better example of the practical incompetence of government to conduct business than the history of our railways. During the war the government found it necessary to operate the railways. That operation continued until after the war. In the year before being freed from government operation, they were not able to meet the demands for transportation."

Controversy Raging Between Arthur E. Nelson And Senator Henrik Shipstead In Politics

CORRUPTION CHARGES MADE IN RADIO TALK

DECLARED TO BE SMOKE SCREEN UNDER WHICH SHIPSTEAD IS HIDING

EVADING QUESTIONS PUT TO HIM BY HIS REPUBLICAN OPPONENT

St. Paul, Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—Charges of corruption made in a radio address here last night by Senator Henrik Shipstead were said here today to be smoke screens behind which the farmer-labor incumbent is hiding from questions put to him by Arthur E. Nelson, his republican opponent.

Gregory P. Gentling, chairman of the Nelson-for-senator volunteer committee, declared that Shipstead hoped to evade Nelson's questions concerning the presidential race, the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment by making charges of campaign extravagance.

"The Nelson campaign," Gentling said, "will stand out as one of the most economical in the history of the state. The great difficulty has been to get enough funds to keep headquarters open."

"Every expenditure has been strictly within the provision of the law."

"Senator Shipstead is making the old-time play for sympathy. He is irritated to think his way to re-election should be disputed. He had hoped to engage in a so-called campaign in which no questions would be asked. Finding himself in a fight, the senator is exceedingly annoyed."

"It is true that 15,000 women in Minnesota are voluntarily donating their time for the election of Nelson because he is for Hoover. They are working for Nelson because he is against repeal or modification of the prohibition law."

"They are more than ever convinced that Nelson should be elected since George Cashman, a wet candidate for senator, withdrew in favor of Senator Shipstead."

JOSEPHUS DANIELS CRITICIZES DR. WORK AS PARTY CHAIRMAN

Waynesville, N. C., Oct. 23.—(U.P.)

A demand that Herbert Hoover ask the resignation of Dr. Hubert Work as chairman of the republican national committee was made in a speech here last night by Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy.

Daniels said if Dr. Work did not resign the republican party in consequence must accept the responsibility of his renewal of the Salt Creek oil lease to the Sinclair interests. "The contract was renewed last spring by Dr. Work who then was secretary of the interior."

U. S. SUPREME COURT SETS A NEW RECORD

ALSO FURNISHES A PRECEDENT FOR LOWER FEDERAL COURTS

DISPOSES OF MORE THAN 250 APPEALS OUT OF 500 IN 3 WEEKS

Washington, Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—The U. S. supreme court has set a record for itself—and a precedent for lower federal courts—by disposing of more than 250 appeals out of 500 filed, in the first three weeks of its annual term.

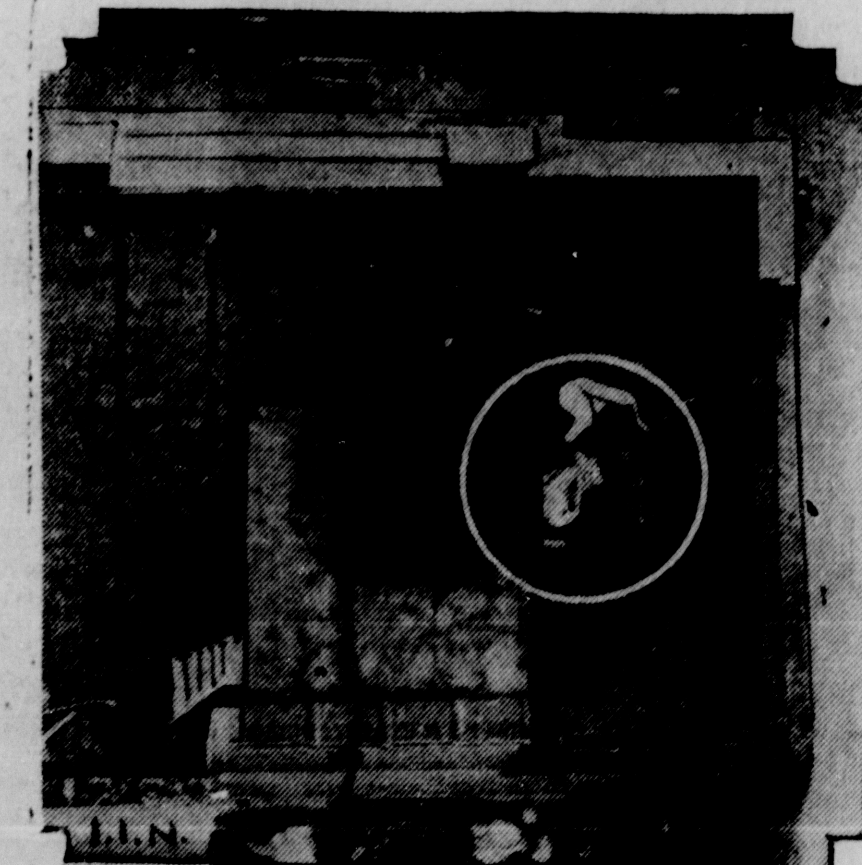

Only two opinions have been announced. By perusal of the hundreds of briefs filed, however, the court has been able to skim through the entire docket and clear the decks for action on the remaining 250 cases it deems worthy of further consideration.

A dozen cases more will be heard this week, and the court will adjourn for a three-week recess to consider the cases under advisement.

The important pending cases affect a dozen vital economic factors of American life.

The lake cargo coal rate decision, involving an economic conflict of the first magnitude between northern and southern coal operators, the goal of which is the entire Great Lakes cargo trade, is scheduled to be taken up for argument in the next few months. The O'Fallon railroad valuation case and an interstate commerce decision lowering rates from California eastward on that state's huge grape crop, appealed by the railroads, also are pending.

NEW ARBITRATION PACT PROPOSED IS NOW UNDER CONSIDERATION

SECRETARY KELLOGG INSISTENT FOR IMMEDIATE ACTION

Washington, Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—Responding to Secretary of State Kellogg's request for immediate action on a new arbitration treaty, the British government within a few days will end the long delay in the negotiations by formally placing its views before the state department, it was reported in diplomatic circles today.

This action would be the first taken by Great Britain since Kellogg initiated the negotiations last December. At the British embassy, it was said the matter would be taken up as soon as detail instructions expected momentarily, were received from London.

A week ago, Kellogg sent a note to London asking that the negotiations be expedited. The British replied they still were waiting to hear from the dominion governments, but today it was intimated London will proceed with the discussions without further delay.

VINCENT TITUS, AGE 8, IS FOUND AFTER RUNAWAY

New York, Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—What he had learned about women and life, Vincent Titus, 8, of Bellaire, L. I., told police who found him after a two-day runaway.

"For a month I saved until I had a stake," he said, "but I foolishly spent it on cake and things like that. Bad companions cause men's downfall, and I always travel alone."

"I like men. They don't bother you."

"But all the women say 'Oh, you dear,' and that's when I leave them."

Papa Titus took his son by the hand and led him from the police station.

"You'll learn about women from your mother," he said.

SUPPOSED TONG WAR KILLING OF CHINESE COOK IN MILL CITY

Minneapolis, Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—Several Chinese were under arrest and scores of special police guarded their district here today following the supposed tong war killing last night of Hugh U. Kay, 20-year-old Chinese cook.

Kay, who was shot three times as he walked through a side street in the Chinese section of the city, was said by police to be a member of the Leong tong. Brother tong men who were arrested denied any knowledge of trouble between their organization and the Hip Sings, the rival tong.

Kay's death was the first blamed to tong warfare here since 1925 when several Chinese were killed.

ERNEST LUNDEEN ATTACKS THE TWO MAJOR PARTIES

FARMER-LABOR CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR IN KEYNOTE SPEECH

SAYS REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS VIRTUALLY ENDORSED McNARY-HAUGEN BILL

Minneapolis, Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—Ernest Lundeen, farmer-labor candidate for governor, in his keynote address over radio station WRTM here last night attacked the two major parties and the record of Governor Theodore Christianson.

The candidate said that the republican and democratic parties had virtually endorsed the McNary-Haugen bill in their platforms but the two presidential candidates had ignored the issue in their personal platforms.

Governor Theodore Christianson, Lundeen said, has failed the common people and had built up a state government for the favored few.

Lundeen advocated the election of Senator Henrik Shipstead and the entire farmer-labor ticket but gave his endorsement to neither Herbert Hoover nor Governor Smith.

The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway, inland river development, agricultural relief and labor reform measures, all received the endorsement of the candidate.

POLITICIANS OF BOTH PARTIES ARE ENTHUSED

HEAVY REGISTRATION REPORTED THROUGHOUT UNITED STATES

EVERYWHERE WOMEN ARE PREPARING TO EXERCISE VOTING RIGHTS

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 23.—Politicians of both parties are looking forward to a record-breaking vote in the presidential election.

Figures so far known indicate heavy registration practically everywhere with women voters preparing to exercise their voting right more extensively than ever before.

Both camps are striving hard to "get out the vote," and the indications today are that, while there still will be an army of stay-at-homes, untold thousands will seek out the polls on Nov. 6 out of sheer interest in the contest.

From virtually every corner of the land come reports that registration is unparalleled this year. Many experts look for a total vote of from 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 compared with a total 1924 vote of between 29,000,000 and 30,000,000.

New York City offers a striking illustration of the interest this battle between Herbert Hoover and Gov. Smith has developed.

The registration there is 2,023,654 or about 500,000 above the 1924 vote. Chicago with a 1,500,000 registration is about one-third above the total number voting in 1924. For Illinois as a whole there are estimates of registration running 3,000,000 or more, a one-fifth increase or greater, over the 1924 vote.

The city of Lincoln, Neb., to date has about 30,000 registrations—a 6,000 gain over 1924. These merely are samples of what is happening in many quarters of the land. Even in the south where hitherto practically everybody voted democratic as a matter of course and then chiefly in the primaries, registration indicates a hitherto unequalled interest.

There are about 58,000 persons eligible to vote in the coming election, and of this number about 28,500,000 are women. Many of these, both male and female, however, will be stay-at-homes.

Reports from many urban centers say that the women literally have swamped the registration centers, in New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, St. Paul, Baltimore, Chicago and Louisville increased registration is reported, and the women are aiding much to swell the totals.

SENATOR SHEPARD TAKES ISSUE WITH HERBERT HOOVER

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—Herbert Hoover's attitude in regard to prohibition and his claims of national prosperity were denounced by Sen. Morris Shepard, Texas, so-called author of the 18th amendment, in a speech here last night.

"It appears to be utterly hopeless to get a clear statement from Hoover on any issue in this campaign," Shepard said in commenting on Hoover's prohibition statements. "From all he has said, he can consistently advocate repeal of the Volstead act after the investigation he plans."

Shepard said although he was not in agreement with Gov. Smith in his opinion on the merits of prohibition, he wished to see justice done the democratic candidate in his square stand for law enforcement.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT ON CROSS-COUNTRY SPEAKING TOUR

Her itinerary calls for an address at Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 24; Mitchell, S. D., Oct. 27; St. Paul or Minneapolis, Oct. 30, and Pasadena, Calif., Nov. 5.

VINCENT TITUS, AGE 8, IS FOUND AFTER RUNAWAY

New York, Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—What he had learned about women and life, Vincent Titus, 8, of Bellaire, L. I., told police who found him after a two-day runaway.

"For a month I saved until I had a stake," he said, "but I foolishly spent it on cake and things like that. Bad companions cause men's downfall, and I always travel alone."

"I like men. They don't bother you."

"But all the women say is 'Oh, you dear,' and that's when I leave them."

Papa Titus took his son by the hand and led him from the police station.

"You'll learn about women from your mother," he said.

SUPPOSED TONG WAR KILLING OF CHINESE COOK IN MILL CITY

Minneapolis, Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—Several Chinese were under arrest and scores of special police guarded their district here today following the supposed tong war killing last night of Hugh U. Kay, 20-year-old Chinese cook.

Kay, who was shot three times as he walked through a side street in the Chinese section of the city, was said by police to be a member of the Leong tong. Brother tong men who were arrested denied any knowledge of trouble between their organization and the Hip Sings, the rival tong.

Kay's death was the first blamed to tong warfare here since 1925 when several Chinese were killed.

HOUGHTON TO CAMPAIGN FOR HOOVER

New York, Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—Alanson B. Houghton, republican candidate for United States senator from New York, will campaign through the middle-west in an effort to keep the so-called German vote in line for Herbert Hoover, according to an announcement made by H. Edmund Machold, republican state chairman.

It was announced that Houghton would speak in Milwaukee Saturday night.

FRITZ GOLD MEDAL AWARDED TO HOOVER

New York, Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—The John Fritz gold medal, regarded as the highest honor in the engineering profession, has been awarded to Herbert Hoover, republican presidential nominee. The award was made tentatively a year ago, officials of the engineering foundation said.

ERNEST LUNDEEN ATTACKS THE TWO MAJOR PARTIES

FARMER-LABOR CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR IN KEYNOTE SPEECH

SAYS REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS VIRTUALLY ENDORSED McNARY-HAUGEN BILL

Minneapolis, Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—Ernest Lundeen, farmer-labor candidate for governor, in his keynote address over radio station WRTM here last night attacked the two major parties and the record of Governor Theodore Christianson.

The candidate said that the republican and democratic parties had virtually endorsed the McNary-Haugen bill in their platforms but the two presidential candidates had ignored the issue in their personal platforms.

Governor Theodore Christianson, Lundeen said, has failed the common people and had built up a state government for the favored few.

Lundeen advocated the election of Senator Henrik Shipstead and the entire farmer-labor ticket but gave his endorsement to neither Herbert Hoover nor Governor Smith.

The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway, inland river development, agricultural relief and labor reform measures, all received the endorsement of the candidate.

POLITICIANS OF BOTH PARTIES ARE ENTHUSED

HEAVY REGISTRATION REPORT-ED THROUGHOUT UNITED STATES

EVERYWHERE WOMEN ARE PREPARING TO EXERCISE VOTING RIGHTS

By CARL D. GROAT

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 23.—Politicians of both parties are looking forward to a record-breaking vote in the presidential election.

Figures so far known indicate heavy registration practically everywhere with women voters preparing to exercise their voting right more extensively than ever before.

Both camps are striving hard to "get out the vote," and the indications today are that, while there still will be an army of stay-at-homes, untold thousands will seek out the polls on Nov. 6 out of sheer interest in the contest.

From virtually every corner of the land come reports that registration is unparalleled this year. Many experts look for a total vote of from 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 compared with a total 1924 vote of between 29,000,000 and 30,000,000.

New York City offers a striking illustration of the interest this battle between Herbert Hoover and Gov. Smith has developed.

The registration there is 2,023,654 or about 500,000 above the 1924 vote. Chicago with a 1,500,000 registration is about one-third above the total number voting in 1924. For Illinois as a whole there are estimates of registration running 3,000,000 or more, a one-fifth increase or greater, over the 1924 vote.

The city of Lincoln, Neb., to date has about 30,000 registrations—a 6,000 gain over 1924. These merely are samples of what is happening in many quarters of the land. Even in the south where hitherto practically everybody voted democratic as a matter of course and then chiefly in the primaries, registration indicates a hitherto unequalled interest.

There are about 58,000,000 persons eligible to vote in the coming election, and of this number about 28,500,000 are women. Many of these, both male and female, however, will be stay-at-homes.

Reports from many urban centers say that the women literally have swamped the registration centers, in New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, St. Paul, Baltimore, Chicago and Louisville increased registration is reported, and the women are aiding much to swell the totals.

SENATOR SHEPARD TAKES ISSUE WITH HERBERT HOOVER

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—Herbert Hoover's attitude in regard to prohibition and his claims of national prosperity were denounced by Sen. Morris Shepard, Texas, so-called author of the 18th amendment, in a speech here last night.

"It appears to be utterly hopeless to get a clear statement from Hoover on any issue in this campaign," Shepard said in commenting on Hoover's prohibition statements. "From all he has said, he can consistently advocate repeal of the Volstead act after the investigation he plans."

Shepard said although he was not in agreement with Gov. Smith in his opinion on the merits of prohibition, he wished to see justice done the democratic candidate in his square stand for law enforcement.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT ON CROSS-COUNTRY SPEAKING TOUR

Washington, Oct. 23.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant U. S. attorney general, will leave here today on a cross-country speaking tour in behalf of the candidacy of Herbert Hoover, under the direction of the republican national committee.

Her itinerary calls for an address at Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 24; Mitchell, S. D., Oct. 27; St. Paul or Minneapolis, Oct. 30, and Pasadena, Calif., Nov. 5.

Guggenheim Heirs Die in Fall

Slipping from arms of their mother, Mrs. Barbara Hasel Waldman, Terrence, 4, and Benjamin, 14 months, fell 17 stories to their death from roof of Surrey hotel in New York. The photo above shows tiny bodies being removed from roof of three-story building adjoining hotel. The children were grandsons of the late Benjamin Guggenheim, copper magnate.

TO LOCATE INTERFERENCE

Concentrated Effort to be Made to Better Radio Conditions in City

The members of the membership committee of the Brainerd Radio Association met last evening in the office of D. E. Whitney to discuss plans for a city-wide membership drive to make everyone of the 700 radio owners in the city of Brainerd a member of the association.

The members of the association are anxious to get all radio owners to become members of the association so that a tremendous and united effort can be made to locate interference and free Brainerd of the interference that often proves very annoying to radio users in the city.

The money required in the nominal membership fee of the club is all used in the purchase of material to be used in locating the trouble or for the men employed in locating the interference.

New Directory for Brainerd to be One Third Larger Than Old

TAKE NAMES NEXT MONTH

Eighteen Men Employed to Take Names in City and Country

Considerable changes will be noticed when the residential directory for Brainerd is published and ready for distribution and sale after the first of next year in that names of farmers on seven mail routes out of Brainerd and those getting mail through Deerwood, Ft. Ripley and Pequot will be added.

The new directory will be one third larger than the one now in use. E. D. Morrison, advance agent of R. L. Polk and Co. publishers of the directory announced today.

Eighteen men will be used in Brainerd taking the names of those residing here. They are expected to start work some time next month.

Not Exactly a Relish

The Borgias and other notorious prisoners of history were reputed to have mixed finely powdered glass in food and drinks which they offered their victims. But recently, according to Popular Science Monthly, Dr. Roche Lynch demonstrated to the Medical Society of London that this supposedly murderous material usually passes through the human digestive system without causing death or even doing serious damage. Larger pieces of glass with sharp edges, however are dangerous.

California's Flowers

Some of the wildflowers of California are: Anemone, California poppy, blazing star, baby-blue eyes, white daisy, blue lupine, Clarkia elegans and wild Canterbury bells; perennials, Indian paint brush, scarlet larkspur, pride of California, scarlet honey-suckle, California fuchsia and white evening primrose.

Living River Dredge

The hippopotamus tears up and eats the great plants and weeds that grow in rivers, thus acting as one of nature's great dredges.

New Directory for Brainerd to be One Third Larger Than Old

TAKE NAMES NEXT MONTH

Eighteen Men Employed to Take Names in City and Country

Considerable changes will be noticed when the residential directory for Brainerd is published and ready for distribution and sale after the first of next year in that names of farmers on seven mail routes out of Brainerd and those getting mail through Deerwood, Ft. Ripley and Pequot will be added.

The new directory will be one third larger than the one now in use. E. D. Morrison, advance agent of R. L. Polk and Co. publishers of the directory announced today.

Eighteen men will be used in Brainerd taking the names of those residing here. They are expected to start work some time next month.

Not Exactly a Relish

The Borgias and other notorious prisoners of history were reputed to have mixed finely powdered glass in food and drinks which they offered their victims. But recently, according to Popular Science Monthly, Dr. Roche Lynch demonstrated to the Medical Society of London that this supposedly murderous material usually passes through the human digestive system without causing death or even doing serious damage. Larger pieces of glass with sharp edges, however are dangerous.

California's Flowers

Some of the wildflowers of California are: Annuals, California poppy, blazing star, baby-blue eyes, white daisy, blue lupine, Clarks elegans and wild Canterbury bells; perennials, Indian paint brush, scarlet larkspur, pride of California, scarlet larkspur, suckle, California fuchsia and white evening primrose.

Living River Dredge

The hippopotamus tears up and eats the great plants and weeds that grow in rivers, thus acting as one of nature's great dredges.

MR. KELLOGG'S CREDENTIALS FOR MR. HOOVER

FEW men are in a more advantageous position than Secretary Kellogg to appraise the character and ability of Herbert Hoover, and it is a fine certificate he offers to the people in behalf of the Republican candidate, says the Minneapolis Journal.

Mr. Kellogg was our ambassador to the court of St. James, London, for a time before he became secretary of state on March 4, 1925. He had opportunity to learn there what the great men and women of many European nations thought of Mr. Hoover as a man and as doer of tremendously big things during and after the war. On all sides he found evidence of two outstanding characteristics of Mr. Hoover—his humanitarianism and his Americanism. Innumerable testimonials came to him, doubtless, as to the Hoover courage necessary to the carrying on of his great work in bringing order out of chaos in Belgium and elsewhere, his caring for the victims of the war, first in the Allied nations and, second, in the countries that had been at war against them.

As head of the state department Mr. Kellogg also must be familiar with what Mr. Hoover has done to extend markets for American goods in other countries since 1921, what he has done to make the department of commerce a going, achieving arm of the government, or, as one writer puts it, "the world's most formidable engine of foreign trade conquest."

For nearly four years Secretary Kellogg sat periodically at the cabinet table with Mr. Hoover. He learned what the commerce department was doing or aiming to do, what was Mr. Hoover's interest in and activity for the St. Lawrence waterway project, how comprehensive was his vision regarding the development of our inland waterways, how he went about organizing and executing relief for the flood sufferers, what his leadership availed in eliminating waste in American industrial processes. In sum, he became sharply aware by long association with the genius of the man for the solution of difficult social and economic problems.

During his food and relief ministry to stricken Europe Mr. Hoover handled about $11,000,000,000 worth of food products and maintained an accounting system that was without flaw. Although he had virtually unlimited powers he unfailingly retained the humanitarian spirit, put aside any temptations to selfish dictatorship there might have been, and dealt with every penny of philanthropic aid as scrupulously as if it were the money of his own mother.

Secretary Kellogg knows all these things about Mr. Hoover, and he knows much more to the credit of his cabinet colleague. He does not need to take the word of others as to the fitness of Mr. Hoover in mind, heart and purpose to serve the people as their chief executive. He is not dependent on the records to write a brief for Mr. Hoover's friendship for the American farmer, wage-earner, industrial producer and merchant.

WOMEN AS CAMPAIGNERS

FOR the first time in history Minnesota Republican women are running their own campaign. Nine hundred women's Hoover clubs have been organized in the state, with at least 15,000 active workers, according to Mrs. Manley L. Fosseen, Minneapolis, Republican national committeewoman, who has been in charge of women's activities in cooperation with Mrs. Winifred N. Campbell, Republican state chairwoman.

Mrs. Fosseen pointed to the work of a few of the 900 Women's Hoover clubs in Minnesota as representative of what has been going on all over the state.

In the town of Nevis, Hubbard county, all but 10 women voters have signed Hoover pledges and are members of the local club. In Itasca county more than 1,500 women workers have been enrolled in 14 clubs.

Mrs. F. H. Harding, president of the Crookston club, reports that on one afternoon the club arranged for 17 political teas in as many homes and that the club has determined to get out every Hoover vote on November 6.

The Northfield club has more than 600 members enrolled and is still adding to the list, while the Eveleth organization has more than 200 signed up.

The Duluth Women's Hoover club has a membership of over 5,000 while membership in the Virginia club has passed the 800 mark. Similar reports could be made on behalf of virtually every one of the 900 clubs, Mrs. Fosseen said.

WILL THE SOLID SOUTH STAY SOLID?

NEVER since the civil war has a Democratic candidate for the presidency found it necessary to campaign in the supposedly "Solid South" until this season, when Governor Alfred E. Smith visited southern states and made speeches there.

In the past, the South has been considered such a reliable Democratic asset that no Democrat ever questioned its breaking away.

This year, however, and mark our words, the Solid South is to receive several hard dents, owing to the persistent campaigning of the Republicans.

There has been a great change in the South. Northern money has been freely invested in southern industrial enterprises, and as a result the south takes a different view on tariff questions. Industrial efficiency is sought in more ways than one. The South has changed from a section producing raw materials to one in which production of manufactured articles is coupled with production of the raw material.

TRACY businessmen have pledged $5,000 toward a proposed airport, golf course and tourist and baseball park. An outlying farm is to be bought to be the site of the municipally owned airport, making the location a general community proposition.

As goes the Literary Digest, so goes the nation, seems to be the new axiom in politics.

A HASTY, flighty temper harms its possessor more than those who are targets of the wrath.

Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, against industrial workers enslaving themselves to government authority.

"I would amplify Mr. Gompers' statement. The great body of government employees which would be created by the proposals of our opponents would either comprise a political machine at the disposal of the party in power.

"Liberalism is a force truly of the spirit, a force proceeding from the deep realization that economic freedom cannot be sacrificed if political freedom is to be preserved. For a hundred and fifty years liberalism has found its true spirit in the American system, not in the European systems.

"As to our great manufacturing and distributing industries, the republican party insisted upon the enactment of laws that not only would maintain competition but would destroy conspiracies to destroy the smaller units or dominate and limit the equality of opportunity amongst our people.

"And what have been the results of our American system, our country has become the land of opportunity to those born without inheritance, not merely because of the wealth of its resources and industry but because of this freedom of initiative and enterprise."

In a direct appeal on the prosperity issue to New York City, Hoover praised the metropolis as the center of American commercial life, but pointed out that its welfare was dependent upon the rest of the country.

"My conception of America is a land where men and women may walk in ordered freedom in the independent conduct of their occupations; where they may enjoy the advantages of wealth, not concentrated in the hands of the few but spread through the lives of all, where they build and safeguard their homes, and give to their children the fullest advantages and opportunities of American life, where every man shall be respected in the faith that his conscience and his heart direct him to follow; where a contented and happy people, secure in their liberties, free from poverty and fear, shall have the leisure and impulse to seek a fuller life."

Do they realize that the republican party has in no manner or form disowned corruption within its ranks? While on the other side Governor Smith, fully aware of the loss of votes it will mean, his vigorously initiated a criminal prosecution against the Connolly machine in Queens.

Do they know that Professor Edward Earle one of our most prominent authorities on international affairs (Professor Earle has not been associated with the democratic party and at present is at Columbia) has stated recently that he believes Hoover's influence on international affairs and relations is more pernicious than any other important figure. And that Hoover's fantastic rubber war five years ago with Great Britain bore all the car marks of an irresponsible and incredulous jingo.

"You will realize what a wonderful blessing Sargon has been to me when I tell you that before taking this medicine my condition was so serious I thought I was going to die. I had actually made arrangements for the care of my children when I was gone.

"For three years I suffered with stomach trouble and other disorders but for the past seven months, until I began taking Sargon, I suffered almost death. I could eat nothing but a little whole wheat bran and eggs, and at times I had such severe cramps in my stomach I would go four or five days without even taking a drink of water.

"At one time I had a 'sleeping spell' that lasted four days and nights, and my people could arouse me only with difficulty, and for a short while, and even then I wasn't fully conscious. I have been under treatments of four of the best doctors in this community, but nothing they gave me seemed to do me any good.

"I decided to try Sargon and I noticed an improvement the third day. I began to get hungry, and was delighted to find that what I ate agreed with me perfectly. As I continued the treatment I improved from day to day. I am now on my fourth bottle and am like a different woman. I am up and able to do all my housework, including the washing and scrubbing for my family of six. My weight has increased from 110 to 120 pounds."

The above remarkable statement was recently made to Mr. W. L. Baugh, proprietor of Baugh's Drug Store, Searcy, Ark., by Mrs. Emma May Helms, a well known and highly respected resident on R. F. D. Route 1, Pangburn, Ark. The statement was witnessed by three prominent business men of Searcy—two of whom are officials of the Union Bank & Trust Co., and the third manager of one of the leading department stores of the city.

Dear Editor: I noticed in your paper of October 8, an editorial, advocating to your readers, to elect a representative to the state legislature from Brainerd.

In all fairness to the voters of Brainerd, I wish to advise through the columns of your paper, that we have in William A. Syreen, just such a man.

He has served Crow Wing county efficiently for two terms as county commissioner; he is a man of wide experience, and knows the needs and wants of the City of Brainerd.

For several years he has owned considerable real estate in Brainerd and very recently purchased more of it.

Plans are now under way for extensive improvements in Brainerd on the property recently purchased by Mr. Syreen; said improvements will amount to several thousands of dollars, say nothing of the thirty or forty thousand he has already invested here in our city.

I am sure that the voters of Brainerd realize the aggressiveness of Mr. Syreen and I conscientiously believe that our citizens are pleased and grateful to him for his activities in helping the development of our city, and I hope they will show their appreciation for Mr. Syreen's entry to the City of Brainerd by voting him into the legislature where he can continue to do more for us.

Dear Editor:

Your newspaper has neglected to give some facts intimately connected with the present political campaign that I believe your readers should know.

Are your readers acquainted with the fact that Mr. Hoover thought the Muscle Shoals question of such minor importance that he completely ignored it in his Elizabethton speech? Why has not the significance of such neglect been brought to their attention? It means undoubtedly that Hoover will follow the Coolidge policy which culminated in the president pocket vetoing the Muscle Shoals bill.

Do they realize that the republican party has in no manner or form disowned corruption within its ranks? While on the other side Governor Smith, fully aware of the loss of votes it will mean, his vigorously initiated a criminal prosecution against the Connolly machine in Queens.

Do they know that Professor Edward Earle one of our most prominent authorities on international affairs (Professor Earle has not been associated with the democratic party and at present is at Columbia) has stated recently that he believes Hoover's influence on international affairs and relations is more pernicious than any other important figure. And that Hoover's fantastic rubber war five years ago with Great Britain bore all the car marks of an irresponsible and incredulous jingo.

Could you explain why Mrs. Mable Willibrand, protégée and defender of Harry Dougherty, the infamous attorney general, has been allowed, in the words of John W. Davis "to make the issue this time whether the nation can stand divided on the question of religion as it was a question whether it could stand divided on the question of slavery at the time of the Civil war" and was not rebuked by the republican party realizing her federal position. I am a "dry" but this is a commonwealth of the people and it is high time they should have the opportunity to express their views on prohibition. This opportunity Governor Smith may be the means of offering.

Has the fact that Al Smith and Tammany Hall were the ones to fight to a finish and to introduce into the New York Assembly Workmen's compensation and Mother's Pension laws been given cognizance? It is such legislation that Tammany has sponsored, your are against Tammany's influence, don't you favor the working man or widow? Al Smith above all is the champion of the common man.

Felix Frankfurter, one of the brilliant men of our day, in a recent article concerning Hoover and the power trusts says, "the power trusts defeated Governor Smith's program in New York. Whatever may have caused Mr. Hoover's shift of attitude in result he champions the immunities demanded by the power trusts. In regard to Mr. Frankfurter I refer you to 'Who's Who.'"

Hoover is talking in Boston tonight. Perhaps he will tell the army of unemployed textile workers how prosperous they are or again he may revert to such gross exaggerations as he displayed in New Jersey. At any rate he will not inform them that the democratic party, the party of Al Smith, has never had the taint of graft and corruption associated with any of their presidents or cabinet officers.

The satisfying and economical fuel Ford Coke

Product of the Ford Motor Company

MANY people who have had a chance to compare Ford Coke with other fuels consider it the most satisfactory and economical fuel they can buy. And they have good reasons for that opinion.

Ford Coke is easy to burn. It needs attention but twice a day. It produces heat quickly. It burns without smoke or soot, and if you burn it correctly, with no clinkers.

The quality of Ford Coke is high and uniform. It must be, for the Ford Motor Company uses it. And to make certain it is dependable the Ford Motor Company makes Ford Coke in its own coke ovens, from coal mined in Ford-owned mines.

The price is another attractive feature of Ford Coke. Buy this better fuel now. Telephone your order.

MR. KELLOGG'S CREDENTIALS FOR MR. HOOVER

FEW men are in a more advantageous position than Secretary Kellogg to appraise the character and ability of Herbert Hoover, and it is a fine certificate he offers to the people in behalf of the Republican candidate, says the Minneapolis Journal.

Mr. Kellogg was our ambassador to the court of St. James, London, for a time before he became secretary of state on March 4, 1925. He had opportunity to learn there what the great men and women of many European nations thought of Mr. Hoover as a man and as doer of tremendously big things during and after the war. On all sides he found evidence of two outstanding characteristics of Mr. Hoover—his humanitarianism and his Americanism. Innumerable testimonials came to him, doubtless, as to the Hoover courage necessary to the carrying on of his great work in bringing order out of chaos in Belgium and elsewhere, his caring for the victims of the war, first in the Allied nations and, second, in the countries that had been at war against them.

As head of the state department Mr. Kellogg also must be familiar with what Mr. Hoover has done to extend markets for American goods in other countries since 1921, what he has done to make the department of commerce a going, achieving arm of the government, or, as one writer puts it, "the world's most formidable engine of foreign trade conquest."

For nearly four years Secretary Kellogg sat periodically at the cabinet table with Mr. Hoover. He learned what the commerce department was doing or aiming to do, what was Mr. Hoover's interest in and activity for the St. Lawrence waterway project, how comprehensive was his vision regarding the development of our inland waterways, how he went about organizing and executing relief for the flood sufferers, what his leadership involved in eliminating waste in American industrial processes. In sum, he became sharply aware by long association with the genius of the man for the solution of difficult social and economic problems.

During his food and relief ministry to stricken Europe Mr. Hoover handled about $11,000,000,000 worth of food products and maintained an accounting system that was without flaw. Although he had virtually unlimited powers he unfailingly retained the humanitarian spirit, put aside any temptations to selfish dictatorship there might have been, and dealt with every penny of philanthropic aid as scrupulously as if it were the money of his own mother.

Secretary Kellogg knows all these things about Mr. Hoover, and he knows much more to the credit of his cabinet colleague. He does not need to take the word of others as to the fitness of Mr. Hoover in mind, heart and purpose to serve the people as their chief executive. He is not dependent on the records to write a brief for Mr. Hoover's friendship for the American farmer, wage-earner, industrial producer and merchant.

WOMEN AS CAMPAIGNERS

FOR the first time in history Minnesota Republican women are running their own campaign. Nine hundred women's Hoover clubs have been organized in the state, with at least 15,000 active workers, according to Mrs. Manley L. Fosseen, Minneapolis, Republican national committeewoman, who has been in charge of women's activities in cooperation with Mrs. Winifred N. Campbell, Republican state chairwoman.

Mrs. Fosseen pointed to the work of a few of the 900 Women's Hoover clubs in Minnesota as representative of what has been going on all over the state.

In the town of Nevis, Hubbard county, all but 10 women voters have signed Hoover pledges and are members of the local club. In Itasca county more than 1,500 women workers have been enrolled in 14 clubs.

Mrs. F. H. Harding, president of the Crookston club, reports that on one afternoon the club arranged for 17 political teas in as many homes and that the club has determined to get out every Hoover vote on November 6.

The Northfield club has more than 600 members enrolled and is still adding to the list, while the Eveleth organization has more than 200 signed up.

The Duluth Women's Hoover club has a membership of over 5,000 while membership in the Virginia club has passed the 800 mark. Similar reports could be made on behalf of virtually every one of the 900 clubs, Mrs. Fosseen said.

WILL THE SOLID SOUTH STAY SOLID?

NEVER since the civil war has a Democratic candidate for the presidency found it necessary to campaign in the supposedly "Solid South" until this season, when Governor Alfred E. Smith visited southern states and made speeches there.

In the past, the South has been considered such a reliable Democratic asset that no Democrat ever questioned its breaking away.

This year, however, and mark our words, the Solid South is to receive several hard dents, owing to the persistent campaigning of the Republicans.

There has been a great change in the South. Northern money has been freely invested in southern industrial enterprises, and as a result the south takes a different view on tariff questions. Industrial efficiency is sought in more ways than one. The South has changed from a section producing raw materials to one in which production of manufactured articles is coupled with production of the raw material.

TRACY businessmen have pledged $5,000 toward a proposed airport, golf course and tourist and baseball park. An outlying farm is to be bought to be the site of the municipally owned airport, making the location a general community proposition.

As goes the Literary Digest, so goes the nation, seems to be the new axiom in politics.

A HASTY, flighty temper harms its possessor more than those who are targets of the wrath.

There is a reason why Cecil B. De Mille's "King of Kings," which will be shown at the Lyceum theatre on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, has been called "the picture of pictures." Availing himself of all the magnificent resources and technique of the motion picture art acquired in the last thirty years, Mr. De Mille has selected the greatest theme of history and is said to have reproduced it in a manner worthy of all praise.

The satisfying and economical fuel Ford Coke

Product of the Ford Motor Company

MANY people who have had a chance to compare Ford Coke with other fuels consider it the most satisfactory and economical fuel they can buy. And they have good reasons for that opinion.

Ford Coke is easy to burn. It needs attention but twice a day. It produces heat quickly. It burns without smoke or soot, and if you burn it correctly, with no clinkers.

The quality of Ford Coke is high and uniform. It must be, for the Ford Motor Company uses it. And to make certain it is dependable the Ford Motor Company makes Ford Coke in its own coke ovens, from coal mined in Ford-owned mines.

The price is another attractive feature of Ford Coke. Buy this better fuel now. Telephone your order.

FOURTEEN EASTERN GRID TEAMS RECORD NO DEFEAT OR TIE

ARMY, YALE, DARTMOUTH IN THE GROUP

2 EASTERN ELEVEN, PENNSYLVANIA, LAFAYETTE, HAVE UNCROSSED GOALS

ARMY AND YALE MEET THIS WEEK IN BOWL AT NEW HAVEN

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Oct. 23. — Fourteen football teams in the east have come down to the last Saturday in October without a defeat or tie to mar their records.

Of this group Army, Yale, Dartmouth and New York University apparently have an edge over the rest of the group. In the second classification, Pennsylvania, Carnegie Tech, Cornell, Georgetown and Boston college apparently belong for the present.

The other five unbeaten and untied teams are Williams, Temple (Philadelphia), Duquesne (Pittsburgh), Villa Nova and Tufts. The latter team was one of the two eleven which went through the 1927 season without suffering a defeat or a tie.

Georgetown University has assembled another ruthless scoring machine and has rolled up 205 points in four games against Mt. St. Mary's, Susquehanna, Lebanon Valley and West Virginia Wesleyan.

Two eastern eleven, Pennsylvania and Lafayette, have untrammelled goal lines, but the latter was held to a scoreless tie by Bucknell last week.

The east's big game this week brings together two of the leaders, Army and Yale, in the Bowl at New Haven and the winner quite possibly may continue on to win the mythical eastern championship.

Having conquered Harvard for the first time in history, the Army eleven will attempt to crash another tradition by defeating Yale. No team has ever beaten Harvard and Yale on their home gridirons on successive Saturdays.

There is a growing suspicion in eastern gridiron circles that Mal Stevens, the tall, lanky boy in eastern Kansas has built up a team at Yale in his first year better than Tad Jones' great team of 1927 which lost only to Georgia.

Army's aspirations for a national football championship quite possibly may be punctured by Johnny Garvey, driving halfback who already has made Yale forget Bruce Caldwell. Garvey has that rare combination of power and speed. He's not easy to knock off his feet nor is he easy to reach.

When Garvey is in the game, he carries the ball on every play. When Garvey is out, his substitute, Lampe or Loud, usually carries the ball. Hoot Ellis or Johnny Hoben, the two quarterbacks, sometimes carry the ball. Decker and Hubbard, the other two backs, are interferers and defense stars.

The Yale line from tackle to tackle is big and powerful. Yale has no Scott and Fishwick combinations at ends this season, but the wingmen are capable.

LIONS DROP 2; ONLY 6 PINS DIFFERENCE IN GRAND TOTAL OF BYES-COLTS

STUDY CLUB MEETS ELKS NO. 1 WHILE ELKS NO. 2 PLAYS PETERSONS TONIGHT

Smraker's Colts won the first game from the Bye Clothing Co. last evening by 28 pins, but lost the next two by 12 pins and 22 pins. There was only 6 pins difference in the grand total of the match. This spoils the Colts' record of none lost in previous matches.

Every game was exciting and interesting, being won or lost in the tenth frames.

In the other half of the evening's schedule the Independents No. 1 gave the Lions a drubbing in the first game, but lost the second game, coming back to win the third, making it two out of three.

Peterson, of the Bye Clothing Co. team, got the only 200 count of the evening, making a 212.

This evening the Study Club tangles with the Elks No. 1, while Elks No. 2 will taken on the Peterson Clothing Co. five, and keen rivalry is going to make it a large evening.

MINNESOTA TEAM FACES HARD WEEK OF DRILL FOR IOWA GAME SATURDAY

AT IOWA CITY THE IOWA TEAM IS CONTINUING INTENSIVE DRILL DAILY

Minneapolis—All the Gopher regulars with the exception of Wayne Kakeia, center, and Wallace Norgaard, end, are in good shape. The Minnesota team faces a hard week of drill for the Iowa game at Iowa City Saturday. A hard two hour drill Monday will precede two or three scrimmages later in the week.

Iowa City—On a soggy field the University of Iowa football team today continued intensive drill in preparation for the homecoming game Saturday with Minnesota. Mastrogany, sophomore end who was injured the first week of the season and back in the game against Ripon last week, was not in uniform, owing to illness.

Champaign—Harry Richman is back on the Illinois gridiron and there is joy in the Zuppke camp. Richman, a center, has been ineligible but now is expected to add considerable strength to the line.

Lafayette, Ind.—The Purdue Boilermakers are perfecting a defense for passes in preparation for the Maroons Saturday. The Wisconsin aerial attacks last week bewildered the Boilermakers.

makers and Phelan hopes to overcome the weakness by the end of the week.

South Bend, Ind.—With four regulars and a second stringer on the injured list, the Notre Dame eleven resumed practice today for the Drake university game Saturday. Rockne is looking for a fullback to take the place of Billie Dew, injured in the Georgia Tech game.

Princeton—Trix Bennett, sensational sophomore, has won himself a regular place in the Tigers' backfield and will start at halfback against Cornell Saturday, with Ed Wittmer moving to quarterback.

Annapolis—Art Spring, the Navy's leading running back who was laid up early in the season with injuries, may be able to play against Pennsylvania, Saturday, it was indicated today.

West Point—Four Army players, Captain Sprague, O'Keefe, Perry and Messinger, are on the injured list and two of them may be out of the Yale game.

GET BY FIELDS, SAMMY, AN' YOU'LL HAVE TH' CALL ON TH' WINNER OF TH' DUNDEE-THOMPSON THING!

OH SERGEANT BATTLES JACKIE FIELDS IN LOS ANGELES - OCT. 30. FIELDS IS TH' LAD WHO TRIMMED JACK THOMPSON, TH' NEGRO, AFTER HE'D KNOCKED OUT DUNDEE, TH' CHAMP IN A NON-TITULAR BOUT.

By QUIN HALL.
SERGEANT SAMMY BAKER, of Mitchell Field, is once more seeking that ol' tin bonnet of the welterweight division. Sammy is being forced to go after it in more or less of a left-handed way but, nevertheless, he's going after it. The Sergeant has had his eye on the hat now worn by Joe Dundee for some time, but somehow or other he generally comes close and is sidetracked off the main stem at the very moment it seems that he's about to grab it.

Prinstitute. Earlier this season Sammy started on his annual quest for a championship derby. There was a lot of talk stirred up about a scrapper named Nick Testo, who was widely press agent as the Guy with the Goods. Another flash, Young Corbett the Third, was also being given space in the public prints. Both of these maulers probably rated what they got, but eventually Young Corbett the Third met Mr. Testo and following that Young Corbett heaved the space. For the very good reason that Young Corbett socked Young Testo flat.

Sergeant Sammy, in quest of a titular lid, took on Young Corbett, who had disposed of Mr. Testo. The winner of this match, it was whispered, would get a crack at the champion, Mr. Dundee, of Baltimore. Corbett won the decision over Baker in what was well termed a colorless and slovenly contest. In the rematch Baker won over Corbett in a bout that was a lot peppier than the original but in the meantime the titleholder was playing around over the countryside and met in Chicago a negro named Jack Thompson, from California. Thompson took a couple of hefty swings at the King and had him trying to rub his back through the canvas before the fight really got under way in a serious manner.

It was one of those over-the-weight, cross-your-finger scrambles so the K. O. didn't count so far as the championship was concerned but it boosted the Thompson stock considerably in the Eastern market. So much so in fact that the colored boy was signed up with Dundee for a title bout and booked for Madison Square Garden the night of November 16 A. E. (After Election).

Following all these events an old contract calling for a meeting between Thompson and Jackie Fields was resurrected. This bout has also passed into ring history and the records show that Mr. Fields during the fracas at San Francisco handed the negro an artistic lacing and had him all but out in each of the three final frames.

But the Fields victory over Thompson isn't going to interfere with the Dundee-Thompson fuss in New York. Thompson is still the boy who knocked out the champion. So that's that.

But Sammy Baker hasn't quit looking for that bonnet. Sammy met Pete Meyers in San Francisco a few nights ago and on October 20 he is billed to go against Jackie Fields in a Los Angeles arena.

And a lot hinges on the outcome of that set-to. A win for the Sergeant may set him in for a bout with the winner of the Dundee-Thompson fight. If he loses it's just another setback for the Mitchell Field scrapper and by this time Sammy should have become accustomed to setbacks. One more shouldn't make him any more round shouldered.

Then again, the winner of the championship tilt in Mr. Rickard's auditorium of sweat may decide to hide away behind that rule in New York State which allows a champion six months in which to fiddle his title before he again tosses it into a ring.

Any way you look at it, Sergeant Baker may be after a crown but as usual he's after it in a handed way.

THE B. H. S. GRIDDERS DRUB

AITKIN HERD FRIDAY, 18 TO 6

The B. H. S. football team completed its home schedule for '28 with a victory Friday, at the South Sixth street field, by drubbing the fast Aitkin gridders to the tune of 18 to 6. The game was fast throughout and the brilliant work of the backfield on both teams gave the spectators many a thrill.

The Brainerd warriors gained the most ground on end runs and forward passes while Aitkin met with success on line plays and lateral passes.

Brainerd's first touchdown came within the first five minutes of play. Brainerd received the ball on the kickoff and by a series of end runs, with Gablou and Swanson carrying the ball, the pigskin was carried to the one-yard line. Captain Fuller was called upon to make the yard and he carried half of the Aitkin line with him, in performing the feat. The kick for the extra point failed.

Aitkin, after receiving the kickoff, started a determined drive down the field. The Brainerd line was unable to stop the off tackle smashes and lateral pass plays and at the end of the first quarter the ball was resting on Brainerd's one-yard line. The Brainerd team tried the stone wall stunt and things went very well until the fourth down, when Richardson dived over the line for the touchdown. Aitkin also missed its try for the extra point and the score was 6-6.

Aitkin kicked off and after some flashy playing, Brainerd carried the ball to Aitkin's 20-yard line. On the next play Gablou sprinted around the right end for a touchdown. Brainerd again failed to make the extra point.

Brainerd's last touchdown came as the result of a forward pass. Wise to Lammon. The place kick for the extra point was blocked, making the final score 18-6.

During the last minutes of play Coach Kasch sent in several substitutes to relieve his veterans. On a forward pass, Wise to Hoffbauer, the ball bounced off several Aitkin men and finally came to rest in Hoffbauer's arms. He fought his way to within a foot of the goal before being downed just as the gun sounded. By winning this game, Brainerd made the count four out of five as far as games won and lost are concerned.

Although the Brainerd squad presented a snappy attack Friday, improvement must be made in order to stop the St. Cloud Tech gridders. The St. Cloud team has been beaten only once in three years and to defeat it takes a real team and real support on the part of the fans.

The line-ups:
 Brainerd—Lammon, le; Paine, lt; Abrahamson, lg; Hautala, c; Foster, rg; Larson, rt; Goedderz, re; Dybvik, qb; Gablou lb; Swanson, rh; Fuller, fb.

Aitkin—Stevens, le; Johnson, lt; Hamey, lg; Radcliffe, c; Booker, rg; Laukanen, rt; Bass, re; Nicander, qb; Sharbackle, lb; W. Stevens, rh; Richardson, fb.

Subs: Brainerd—Wise for Dybvik, G. McCaffrey for Goedderz, Halvorson for Gablou, A. Nelson for Foster, Lien for Abrahamson, Garvey for Larson, Hoffbauer for Lammon, Kleven for Swanson.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

ELECTS YEAR'S HEAD

This society's last meeting was one of absurd irregularity, none of which could have been helped and which proved most successful in spite of Fate's irony. It was a senior meeting that interfered—that important one about our rings and pins. So the French people in the seventh period nominated from their own group and voted, as all second year French students are in this period; also that none but French 2 students are to be eligible for office. This vote stood without discussion until at 3:40, the understudents met in this same room. Miss Taylor's, and voted on the candidates heretofore nominated. Was this according to Robert's Parliamentary Law? Everybody is not only satisfied but pleased, so why worry? It all resulted thus:

President—Donald Geist.
 Vice President—Evelyn Carlson.
 Secretary—Helen Bane.
 Treasurer—Lena Schone.

The orchestra met in the farmers' room of the new court house on Thursday night at 7:15 o'clock.

Miss Rickard brought over some more new music and after the older pieces were tried they found out it was time to adjourn.

YE EDITOR

At last the long looked for assemblage of intelligentsia, the HONOR ROLL, has been announced. As you may have noticed, the class of '30 leads all the classes in everything except E's. Altogether it's pretty good for the first six weeks, but let's see a longer one at the end of the next period.

It's too bad there are no more home games this season. The yelling at the last one was certainly neat. Edythe surely succeeded in getting some real noise out of the crowd. We even heard a couple boys in the squad.

As you probably know, the next to the last game of the season is with St. Cloud Tech next Friday at their field. The boys have done well this season, so what do you say to a real torrid pep fest to get 'em hot and keep them that way?

THE LATIN SOCI ORGANIZE 15TH

The Latin club was organized by the Virgil class, Monday morning, Oct. 15. It was decided to elect the officers from the Virgil class, so nominations were in order. Edythe Titus and William McClenahan were nominated for the office of consul. After the results of three ballots, and as there were two consuls in Roman times, they decided to have the two consuls and give them equal power.

For quaestor, which is secretary and treasurer, combined, Sylvia Swanson, Helen Bane and Katherine Hagberg were nominated. Helen Bane was elected.

Joe Heald, Dick bert and David Weber were up for Aedile, which is chairman of the entertainment committee. The office was given to Joe Heald.

It was decided that only Caesar students of a "c" average were eligible to join. The meeting adjourned. The next meeting was held in Miss O'Brien's room Monday morning, Oct. 22. Edythe Titus took charge of the meeting. The initiation committee was appointed as follows: Helen Bane, chairman; Dick Ebert and David Weber. Katherine Hagberg was appointed chairman of the refreshment committee with Sylvia Swanson and Margaret Myers. The next meeting will be held Monday evening, Oct. 29.

Will the Caesar students please wear their oldest clothes as they will be "initiated with all due attention and ceremony."

THOSE SCHOOL-YEAR

RESOLUTIONS

How many of us recall the resolutions we made at the close of school last year? How we intended to study at the opening of this school year so we would not have to work so hard before those much dreaded examinations.

I wonder how many of us are living up to our resolutions? It is certainly much easier to study our lessons as they come each day rather than to wait until examinations—time, and then to try learning in a short time what we should have assimilated in the preceding months.

Let us put those good resolutions into effect while there is still time. By doing so, the examinations next spring will be robbed of their many terrors. Let us study! Begin today! Taken from The Anakahi High School paper.

SOPHOMORES FROLIC AT HOLMES' PAVILION THURSDAY IN DOWNPOUR

RAIN DOES NOT DAMPEN THE ARDOR OF THE PIC-NICKERS

Amid torrents of water and splashes of mud, the Sophomores left the old court house for the Gilbert lake pavilion, the scene of the big picnic, Thursday, Oct. 18. There were many cars to transport the students to the scene of action. Because of the great outburst of nature, everyone was driven inside the pavilion immediately upon his arrival. Many games were played and the committee kept busy. About 5:30 the football boys came, as hungry as a pack of wolves.

The refreshment committee then got the food out on the tables. The lunch consisted of wieners and buns, scalloped potatoes, cabbage salad,

SEVERN ANDERSON TELLS OF HIS TRIP

"It was a grand and glorious trip," said Severn Anderson as he returned Sunday from the Boys club's trip sponsored by the Minneapolis Journal. Severn was the first prizewinner of the 4H Clubs in Crow Wing county. He was also one of the winners of a grand championship in demonstration, while in Tennessee.

Backed by the Lions Club of Brainerd, Severn left Minneapolis last week along with the many other prize winners on their way to Memphis, Tennessee, where the National Dairy Show took place. In addition to taking part in the show, the boys were especially interested in the cotton picking near Memphis. The boys were guests of honor at a banquet in the town and met the mayor.

On the way back, Severn and his friends were greeted with a cordial reception at St. Louis. They were given the opportunity to see Lindbergh's collection of medals, cups and gifts.

Severn is very modest about his achievements, and will talk of nothing but his delightful trip. However, B. H. S. is very proud of him.

Will You Please Tell Me?

Who it was that walked under the arch of his mouth to cross the bridge of his nose, so that he could sit in the shade of the palm of his hand and feed the corn off his toes to the calf of his leg while he had his shoulder-blades sharpened?

 A green little Frosh in a green little way
 Some chemicals mixed just for fun one day;
 Now the green little grasses tenderly wave
 O'er the green little Freshman's green little grave.

Why, we should take a tip from a woodpecker?

Answer—
 He uses his head when he works.

Why, when on Desperado street on a dank, dreary night in Madrid, while whimpering winds wail lonesomely among the shackled spires of evil Velosco Madieros, and a yellow, fuming fog envelopes all in a cloak of Death's own making, should a chicken on a fence resemble a cent?

Answer—
 If I should ask that of
 My very dear mother.
 She would say, "Heads on one side,
 And tails on the other."

Why Ford should make a good president?

Answer—
 He has the makings of another Lincoln, and, besides, he has carried half the country already.

What I should do? I am a well-schooled crook, having tried everything except being good, and can boast of $365,944.29 in rewards for my capture DEAD, as they know I can't be taken alive, BUT—I sent a blackhand letter to a wealthy man, demanding $25,000, or I would kidnap his wife. Through error, the letter was delivered to a poor laborer by the same name, who replied: "I ain't got no money, but I am interested in your proposition." Wot's the philosophy?

Answer—
 The ideal marriage is the one in which the wife is a treasure, and the husband a treasury.

Waiter: "Yes, sir, everything we serve here is cooked by electricity."

Our own dear editor: "Well, take this steak back and give it another shock."

"Bread! bread! I must have bread!" gasped the dying heroine, and the curtain came down with a roll.

Sidelights on the Game

By FANNIE FEMINITY

The day was cold and dark and quite dreary—for Aitkin, after the game was over.

Last week's game with Staples drew a larger crowd than this one, even though the rain clouds refrained from dampening the ardor of the rooters.

Possibly by the end of the season, the cheering will be one of the outstanding features of the games. The prediction is vouchsafed in view of the fact that the rooters are making themselves better heard as each game is played.

A Crosby scout was present to look over our players. This fan is no scout, but she agrees with him that he saw some excellent playing and then again, some which was not so good.

Aitkin's forward passes were working well; Brainerd's pass defense should be given some polishing during the coming week.

Speaking of passes, Brainerd made some good gains by the aerial route. One pass, caught by Lammon was good for a touchdown and another caught by Hoffbauer, almost counted for a goal crossing.

Between halves, the crowd was entertained by future gridiron artists, who passed, punted, and ran through signals. In fact they did everything but play the game.

In the early part of the game, neither line held and both teams marched through each other for a touchdown. The Brainerd line came back later however and withstood the onslaughts of their opponents so that no more tallies were made by Aitkin. Coach Kasch must have "talked turkey" between halves.

One would like to mention a few outstanding players who fought nobly, but they know that they did their best, so that it seems hardly necessary. But three cheers for the subs, anyway.

The game ended just as Hoffbauer caught a pass from Wise and ran almost to the goal line for a gain of what seemed to be nearly 30 yards. If that yardage seems exaggerated it is because Fannie was very much excited about that time. If time had permitted the score might have been at least 24 instead of 18.

SENIORS VOTE ON RINGS AND PHOTOS

When it comes to systematic electioneering, expert salesmanship talks, and heated voting, just get the inside dope on the last two Senior meetings and valuable information may be had for the asking. Last Monday afternoon was the scene of the usual clash—when the Seniors chose their class ring from six samples submitted by the ring committee. It wasn't even safe to express an opinion, much less—to declare your vote outright.

Miss Tornstrom opened the discussion by stressing the importance of the meeting which, she said, was second only in importance to the election of officers.

The ring that secured the majority of votes is gold with a sardonyx setting featuring a small gold shield with the initial "B" and the words "High School;" the year "29" is on the side. The pin is identical with either a plain or a pearl guard. The rings and pins are to be handled through Vanek's Jewelry Store. All Seniors are requested to go to Vanek's and designate whether they want a ring or a pin and to pay a $3.00 deposit upon ordering. The sooner this is settled, the sooner the rings will be forthcoming.

At this same meeting, Guy Hawkins reported on quotations made by the Gorham and Kelly Studios concerning Senior photos. A vote favored Kelly's. Malcolm Ellison appointed a committee consisting of Lois Cook, Monroe Kelly and Lois White to select three folders from a selection sent up by Mr. Kelly—which three were to be submitted to the class. At a meeting last Thursday, the class voted on a folder, and all members signed up for a certain time this week to have a sitting. A $2.00 deposit is also necessary here before the picture is taken. Doll up, Seniors, and pin on the old smile!

Beginning Right

In the first part of the school year the teacher usually puts the pupils through a general review of what has been previously studied. Many pupils neglect this beginning because somehow they have conceived the idea that they do not need the review. This is one instance of a badly mistaken individual who will soon wonder why his subjects are so hard and complicated. Everyone needs a good foundation. Indeed, everything does. If a subject is neglected in the beginning, it will never become easy to the person who does the neglecting because he has not a good foundation. The teacher is paid because she can teach you something. She is responsible, in a sense, for your education. Do you think she would spend time on the review if it were not important? She does not need it, but the pupils do. Study reviews. Start right for a good beginning is half the task.

Teachers' Training Notes

Our class had a very heated discussion last Tuesday too, on our pins. Well it ended thus: We did not decide on any pin, but we are anxiously awaiting the arrival of more samples to quarrel over.

We are now teaching Reading and Arithmetic over in the Garfield school. This is a sure sign that we are not wasting our time nights, for, Oh those Lesson Plans!

Maude T. surprised us by producing some of her long forgotten drawing talent one day last week and even if we had to guess which were vegetables and which were fruit we succeeded beautifully—and How!

THE B. H. S. GRIDDERS DRUB

AITKIN HERD FRIDAY, 18 TO 6

The B. H. S. football team completed its home schedule for '28 with a victory Friday, at the South Sixth street field, by drubbing the fast Aitkin gridders to the tune of 18 to 6. The game was fast throughout and the brilliant work of the backfield on both teams gave the spectators many a thrill.

The Brainerd warriors gained the most ground on end runs and forward passes while Aitkin met with success on line plays and lateral passes.

Brainerd's first touchdown came within the first five minutes of play. Brainerd received the ball on the kickoff and by a series of end runs, with Gablou and Swanson carrying the ball, the pigskin was carried to the one-yard line. Captain Fuller was called upon to make the yard and he carried half of the Aitkin line with him, in performing the feat. The kick for the extra point failed.

Aitkin, after receiving the kickoff, started a determined drive down the field. The Brainerd line was unable to stop the off tackle smashes and lateral pass plays and at the end of the first quarter the ball was resting on Brainerd's one-yard line. The Brainerd team tried the stonewall stunt and things went very well until the fourth down, when Richard Swanson dove over the line for the touchdown. Aitkin also missed its try for the extra point and the score was 6-6.

Aitkin kicked off and after some flashy playing, Brainerd carried the ball to Aitkin's 20-yard line. On the next play Gablou sprinted around the right end for a touchdown. Brainerd again failed to make the extra point.

Brainerd's last touchdown came as the result of a forward pass. Wise to Lammon. The place kick for the extra point was blocked, making the final score 18-6.

During the last minutes of play Coach Kasch sent in several substitutes to relieve his veterans. On a forward pass, Wise to Hoffbauer, the ball bounced off several Aitkin men and finally came to rest in Hoffbauer's arms. He fought his way to within a foot of the goal before being downed just as the gun sounded. By winning this game, Brainerd made the count four out of five as far as games won and lost are concerned.

Although the Brainerd squad presented a snappy attack Friday, improvement must be made in order to stop the St. Cloud Tech gridders. The St. Cloud team has been beaten only once in three years and to defeat it takes a real team and real support on the part of the fans.

The line-ups:
 Brainerd—Lammon, le; Paine, lt; Abrahamson, lg; Hantala, c; Foster, rg; Larson, rt; Goedderz, re; Dyvik, qb; Gablou lb; Swanson, rh; Fuller, fb.

Aitkin—Stevens, le; Johnson, lt; Hamey, lg; Radcliffe, c; Booker, rg; Laukkanen, rt; Bass, re; Nicander, qb; Sharbackle, lb; W. Stevens, rh; Richardson, fb.
 Subs: Brainerd—Wise for Dyvik, G. McCaffrey for Goedderz, Halvorson for Gablou, A. Nelson for Foster, Lien for Abrahamson, Garvey for Larson, Hoffbauer for Lammon, Kleven for Swanson.

A Crosby scout was present to look over our players. This fan is no scout, but she agrees with him that he saw some excellent playing and then again, some which was not so good.

Aitkin's forward passes were working well; Brainerd's pass defense should be given some polishing during the coming week.

Speaking of passes, Brainerd made some good gains by the aerial route. One pass, caught by Lammon was good for a touchdown and another caught by Hoffbauer, almost counted for a goal crossing.

Between halves, the crowd was entertained by future gridiron artists, who passed, punted, and ran through signals. In fact they did everything but play the game.

In the early part of the game, neither line held and both teams marched through each other for a touchdown. The Brainerd line stood back later however and withstood the onslaughts of their opponents so that no more tallies were made by Aitkin. Coach Kasch must have "talked turkey" between halves.

One would like to mention a few outstanding players who fought nobly, but they know that they did their best, so that it seems hardly necessary. But three cheers for the subs, anyway.

The game ended just as Hoffbauer caught a pass from Wise and ran almost to the goal line for a gain of what seemed to be nearly 30 yards. If that yardage seems exaggerated it is because Fannie was very much excited about that time. If time had permitted the score might have been at least 24 instead of 18.

SENIORS VOTE ON RINGS AND PHOTOS

When it comes to systematic electioneering, expert salesmanship talks, and heated voting, just get the inside dope on the last two Senior meetings and valuable information may be had for the asking. Last Monday afternoon was the scene of the usual clash—when the Seniors chose their class ring from six samples submitted by the ring committee. It wasn't even safe to express an opinion, much less—to declare your vote outright.

Miss Tornstrom opened the discussion by stressing the importance of the meeting which, she said, was second only in importance to the election of officers.

The ring that secured the majority of votes is gold with a sardonyx setting featuring a small gold shield with the initial "B" and the words "High School." The year "29" is on the side. The pin is identical with either a plain or a pearl guard. The rings and pins are to be handled through Vanek's Jewelry Store. All Seniors are requested to go to Vanek's and designate whether they want a ring or a pin and to pay a $3.00 deposit upon ordering. The sooner this is settled, the sooner the rings will be forthcoming.

At this same meeting, Guy Hawkins reported on quotations made by the Gorham and Kelly Studios concerning Senior photos. A vote favored Kelly's. Malcolm Ellison appointed a committee consisting of Lois Cook, Monroe Kelly and Lois White to select three folders from a selection sent up by Mr. Kelly—which three were to be submitted to the class. At a meeting last Thursday, the class voted on a folder, and all members signed up for a certain time this week to have a sitting. A $2.00 deposit is also necessary here before the picture is taken. Doll up, Seniors, and pin on the old smile!

Beginning Right

In the first part of the school year the teacher usually puts the pupils through a general review of what has been previously studied. Many pupils neglect this beginning because somehow they have conceived the idea that they do not need the review. This is one instance of a badly mistaken individual who will soon wonder why his subjects are so hard and complicated. Everyone needs a good foundation. Indeed, everything does. If a subject is neglected in the beginning, it will never become easy to the person who does the neglecting because he has not a good foundation. The teacher is paid because she can teach you something. She is responsible, in a sense, for your education. Do you think she would spend time on the review if it were not important? She does not need it, but the pupils do. Study reviews. Start right for a good beginning is half the task.

Teachers' Training Notes

Our class had a very heated discussion last Tuesday too, on our pins. Well it ended thus: We did not decide on any pin, but we are anxiously awaiting the arrival of more samples to quarrel over.

We are now teaching Reading and Arithmetic over in the Garfield school. This is a sure sign that we are not wasting our time nights, for, Oh those Lesson Plans!

Maude T. surprised us by producing some of her long forgotten drawing talent one day last week and even if we had to guess which were vegetables and which were fruit we succeeded beautifully—and How!

GOVERNOR EXTENDS CHURCH GREETINGS

Christianson Brings Felicitations
From State to First Presbyterian Church

SERVICES IMPRESSIVE

Rev. J. R. Michaelson and Mayor F.
E. Little Offer Congratulations of Churches, City

Several hundred people who packed the doors of the new First Presbyterian church last evening at dedication services heard the sincere salutations of the church pastor Rev. A. G. Patterson, greetings from the city churches by Rev. J. R. Michaelson, from the city and community in general by Mayor Frank E. Little and the state as a whole by Governor Theodore Christianson.

While last evening's services were brief they were nevertheless highly impressive. The church choir aided in giving thanks for the benefits of the new church by presenting a service in song. Long before the program was scheduled to start the church was filled to the doors. By 8 p. m. every available seating and standing room accommodations had been taken.

"This gathering tonight which is in the nature of a housewarming in the new church edifice denotes the spirit of friendliness of the people of Brainerd in recognizing the forwardness of one of the congregations in the city," said Governor Christianson as he opened his short address last evening which conveyed a message of the value of Christianity to the State.

"I am pleased to note the generosity and broadmindedness manifested in this house this evening. It was appropriate that response was made by a representative of other churches in the city, appropriate that a response be given by the mayor and it is also most appropriate that I as governor of the state of Minnesota extend the well wishes of the state and congratulations on the achievement of the congregation in its expansion," said the governor.

"The state is tremendously interested in the church. Those who build churches erect ramparts of the state. While complete separation of state and church is one of the cardinal foundations of the constitution, I am here to acknowledge that the state needs the church more than the church needs the state. The church needs the state for the defense and protection of its rights and members. But however important laws are I maintain that the Golden Rule is even more important.

"We are living in an age of revolt, of doubt and question and an age of challenge. What we need is a stabilizing influence and the greatest stabilizing interest in the world today is the church. The state needs christianity because it was upon christianity that the very basis of democracy was founded on. And in my honest opinion, I believe that the spirit of christianity is growing and taking hold of the hearts of men. Christianity is needed in the world to bring meaning to life, to human existence. For the pathway to success and happiness depends on service to others. Even humble work glorifies individual effort," said the governor in his concluding remarks.

Rev. Patterson at the opening of the program expressed his pleasure with the large turnout.

"We are pleased with the throng of people here this evening for the purpose of meeting in fellowship in God's house," said Rev. Patterson, "we this evening are welcoming you and throwing open the whole house to you. We want the pleasure of shaking your hand and assisting us in glorifying this house to God. We welcome all of you."

Rev. J. R. Michaelson, representing the body of other churches in the city and representative of the Brainerd Ministerial Association extended the best wishes of the churches to the First Presbyterian church in continued progress and happiness.

"We have watched with intense interest the work you have done. We rejoice with you in the dedication of your new church home to God," said Rev. Michaelson in part.

Mayor Frank E. Little, representing the city and community extended appreciation of the city of Brainerd to the First Presbyterian church congregation in the erection of its new church, "an addition in beauty to the city of Brainerd which all citizens are duly proud of."

"Brainerd and its citizens are indeed fortunate in being able to attend the dedication of this new church building. Brainerd was only one year old when it had its first church. Now there are 22 religious organizations in the city, representing the growth and spiritual influence in the city. One of the fundamental purposes of the church is to teach you to live. The churches reflect a spirit of happiness and goodwill within our city. We earnestly hope your church will continue to grow and prosper. The citizens of Brainerd appreciate your efforts and congratulate you on your achievement," said Mayor Little.

"Minnesota is proud of its resources, courage, and culture. She has a lustrous history. We believe the history she is establishing today will be a treasure for the future. We are proud of our leaders and we are justly proud of our distinguished governor. Governor we wanted you and we gave you no rest until we got you to come here this evening. It is with pleasure that I call on our well known governor, Theodore Christianson," said Rev. Patterson in introducing the governor.

A NEW All-American

Broadway Love

by Thomas Edgeslow

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

WHEN Fenimore Wilde, famous Broadway actor, dies, his young and pretty daughter, Janet, obtains a job with John Montague, theatrical impresario, while her brother, Frank, an idler, goes South. Janet makes friends with Leonard Quigg, a temperamental musician who loves her, and Dr. David Churchill. When Montague insults her Janet becomes Dr. Churchill's secretary. He tells her he is in love with her and wants to divorce his wife, so Janet gives up her position and goes to live with Chester Quigg, Leonard's artist uncle, and his little daughter, Alice. She learns how to placate old Mrs. Quigg, Chester's mother, and generally makes life pleasant for the Quiggs. Frank Wilde returns home and introduces Janet to Cora Niles, his sweetheart. John Montague dies, leaving $200,000 to Janet, and later she meets Wyndham Stoner, English playwright, who becomes interested in her. But Janet is falling in love with Leonard. Churchill operates on Alice Quigg and calls on Janet after the operation. They are surprised by detectives, hired by Mrs. Churchill. Since Janet is in negligee and David has removed his coat to prepare supper, the detectives leave satisfied. Leonard tells Janet he is in love with her, but the next afternoon she sees him in a car with Mrs. Churchill. Piqued, she accepts Stoner's dinner invitation. They quarrel, and she sends him away. Janet tells Leonard she has seen him with Mrs. Churchill, but he refuses to explain, so she leaves the studio angrily. At the door she meets David Churchill.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLV.

"AND what do you want to do? David was asking, as slowly he drove around Central Park with Janet beside him. 'I don't know what you mean, David,' she replied steadfastly. 'Ever since I have known you, I thought I had made it plain.' 'You told me that a divorce would hurt my career. Well, career or no career, the divorce is going to take place. Amy insists on it. You know, of course, that she has moved to a hotel? We ceased living together from the moment that the detectives framed us that night—though Amy persists in the attitude that we were not framed and that she believes honestly in our guilt. I can't do otherwise with her, so the divorce is going to take place. Doesn't that rather change things, seeing that we can't stop it anyway?' 'But I don't love you,' she protested.

"Then—what happens?" he asked. "Where do we go from here? After the divorce, I mean?" "I think it unjust I should have been dragged into it," she complained.

"Then I am to understand clearly that you don't want to see any more of me?" he asked rather unnecessarily.

"Absolutely and entirely," she answered.

"I'm fed up with the whole thing," he grumbled. "I shall go away tonight on a short vacation—to Canada. What I will do later, I don't know. I think I shall give up my practice in New York and travel after the divorce. I have lost all initiative."

"Well, I wish you'd drive over to Fifty-ninth Street and drop me," Janet requested. "We can't do any good talking this thing over. You must do whatever you think best."

"Anyway, I'm going to Canada tonight," David announced when Janet alighted from the car. "And I suppose this is 'good-bye.'"

"I think it much sadder for us to stop even being friends," she said firmly. "And for the last time—I wish you and Amy would have a little sense."

Janet idled away an hour shopping, and then returned to the studio. Leonard was still there, and there was a curious smile on his lips as he greeted her.

"I'm giving up music as a career," he announced. "I am going to offer my services to Washington as a diplomat. I have great and glorious news for you. That divorce is off."

"The divorce?" she gasped. "The Churchill's divorce?"

"All through little me!" he boasted. "And you so sniffling when you went out, just because you are jealous."

"Not jealous?"

"I would be better grammar, but we will let it pass," he grinned. "Yes, jealous—because you saw me driving with Amy Churchill. I told you nothing about Amy Churchill because I was trying to pull something for you. I wanted results before I told you anything. And what reward did I get? A dirty look! Two dirty looks!"

"When you have ceased being amusing," Janet answered with a touch of chill, just because he had been right, "perhaps you would like to tell me about it?"

"Why buy an electric refrigerator when we are married?" he asked. "You will always provide the ice, and I don't know if I mentioned it, Miss Wilde, but I happen to adore you."

"It would be more fitting, then," Janet melted in spite of herself, "if you were to cease being quite so irritating. Mr. Quigg, I should like to have a few details—even an explanation—of why you interfered in my affairs?"

"For these few words of appreciation, I thank you," he went on lightly. "I pull the cleverest thing I have ever done and all you do in return is to call me names."

"I didn't."

"You did—by your expression. But to tell you what happened, if you would grant me a moment's audience. I realized you were worried about this divorce. The solution was simple—all I had to do was to stop the divorce. Easy, wasn't it? I mean, it was such a natural thing to do; to butt in on a strange woman with the disposition of a mountain lion, and tell her to stop the lawyers doing their stuff! Men have been decorated for less—had Peace Prizes offered to them. However, I did not come to praise myself—but to tell you what I did."

"You went and saw Amy Churchill? Without knowing her?"

"That I did!" Leonard answered. "She was coming out of her hotel when I went up to speak to her. I think she thought I wanted to sell her something. I wanted to get her interest right away, so my opening words were: 'I don't believe you're the fool people say you are!'"

"Yes—that would arouse a stranger's interest," Janet admitted.

"Sure it did!" he said. "The lady had an appointment, and she asked me to drive with her. My style of conversation evidently pleased her. 'You can't go on with this divorce,' I said in my musical voice. 'You've got this whole thing wrong, and as I have nothing to do with it, naturally I feel entitled to introduce myself and plunge into your more private affairs.'"

"And what did she say?" Janet asked.

"I think she spoke of my nerve," Leonard told her, "but for once in my life I didn't want to talk about myself. I told her about you. I explained your feelings for David Churchill. I told her about your love for Alice and of how you didn't even want David to be called in. I told her everything, except I had the sense not to tell her that her husband was in love with you. In fact, I told her about 75 per cent of the truth, which is enough for any woman."

"And she? What did she tell you?" Janet asked eagerly.

"She gave me rather explicit directions as to where I might go," he answered. "Then she stopped the car and let me out on the sidewalk. That was that, until just now, when I had the pleasure of entertaining Mrs. Churchill here in the studio, after you had gone out in a nasty, sulky temper. We had quite a chat."

"Are you telling me that Amy Churchill came here while I was out?" Janet asked incredulously.

"My natural charm!"

"Leonard!"

"She came here to call on you—to find out for herself," Leonard explained.

"I told her that you were out shopping—buying your wedding trousseau," he continued after a dramatic pause.

"My wedding trousseau? Then she thinks I am going to marry David—after the divorce?" Janet, completely puzzled, queried.

"A little calmer!" he smiled. "Didn't I tell you the divorce was all off? I explained that you were out buying the prettiest wedding dress, because—because you were about to be married to me!"

"Leonard! Janet protested, but now she was laughing.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

A Child's Laxative which Mothers Can Rely On

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he constantly advised mothers to give only a harmless laxative which would help to establish natural bowel "regularity."

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin mothers have a regulating laxative which they can depend upon whenever a child is constipated, bilious, feverish or sick from a cold, indigestion or sour stomach. All children love its pleasant taste. Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself how perfectly it cleanses and regulates the bowels of infants and children.

Broadway Love

by Thomas Edgelow

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

WHEN Fenimore Wilde, famous Broadway actor, dies, his young and pretty daughter, Janet, obtains a job with John Montague, theatrical impresario, while her brother, Frank, an idler, goes South. Janet makes friends with Leonard Quigg, a temperamental musician who loves her, and Dr. David Churchill. When Montague insults her Janet becomes Dr. Churchill's secretary. He tells her he is in love with her and wants to divorce his wife, so Janet gives up her position and goes to live with Chester Quigg, Leonard's artist uncle, and his little daughter, Alice. She learns how to placate old Mrs. Quigg, Chester's mother, and generally makes life pleasant for the Quiggs. Frank Wilde returns home and introduces Janet to Cora Niles, his sweetheart. John Montague dies, leaving $200,000 to Janet, and later she meets Wyndham Stoner, English playwright, who becomes interested in her. But Janet is falling in love with Leonard. Churchill operates on Alice Quigg and calls on Janet after the operation. They are surprised by detectives, hired by Mrs. Churchill. Since Janet is in negligence and David has removed his coat to prepare supper, the detectives leave satisfied. Leonard tells Janet he is in love with her, but the next afternoon she sees him in a car with Mrs. Churchill. Piqued, she accepts Stoner's dinner invitation. They quarrel, and she sends him away. Janet tells Leonard she has seen him with Mrs. Churchill, but he refuses to explain, so she leaves the studio angrily. At the door she meets David Churchill.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLV.

“AND what do you want to do?” David was asking, as slowly he drove around Central Park with Janet beside him. “I don't know what you mean, David,” she replied steadfastly. “Ever since I have known you, I thought I had made it plain.” “You told me that a divorce would hurt my career. Well, career or no career, the divorce is going to take place. Amy insists on it. You know, of course, that she has moved to a hotel? We ceased living together from the moment that the detectives framed us that night—though Amy persists in the attitude that we were not framed and that she believes honestly in our guilt. I can't do otherwise with her, so the divorce is going to take place. Doesn't that rather change things, seeing that we can't stop it anyway?” “But I don't love you,” she protested. “Then—what happens?” he asked. “Where do we go from here? After the divorce, I mean?” “I think it unjust I should have been dragged into it,” she complained. “Then I am to understand clearly that you don't want to see any more of me?” he asked rather unnecessarily. “Absolutely and entirely,” she answered. “I'm fed up with the whole thing,” he grumbled. “I shall go away tonight on a short vacation—to Canada. What I will do later, I don't know. I think I shall give up my practice in New York and travel after the divorce. I have lost all initiative.” “Well, I wish you'd drive over to Fifty-ninth Street and drop me,” Janet requested. “We can't do any good talking this thing over. You must do whatever you think best.” “Anyway, I'm going to Canada tonight,” David announced when Janet alighted from the car. “And I suppose this is ‘good-bye.’” “I think it much sadder for us to stop even being friends,” she said firmly. “And for the last solution was simple—all I had to do was to stop the divorce. Easy, wasn't it? I mean, it was such a natural thing to do: to butt in on a strange woman with the disposition of a mountain lion, and tell her to stop the lawyers doing their stuff! Men have been decorated for less—had Peace Prizes offered to them. However, I did not come to praise myself—but to tell you what I did.” “You went and saw Amy Churchill? Without knowing her?” “That I did!” Leonard answered. “She was coming out of her hotel, when I went up to speak to her. I think she thought I wanted to sell her something. I wanted to get her interest right away, so my opening words were: ‘I don't believe you're the fool people say you are!’” “Yes—that would arouse a stranger's interest,” Janet admitted. “Sure it did!” he said. “The lady had an appointment, and she asked me to drive with her. My style of conversation evidently pleased her. ‘You can't go on with this divorce,’ I said in my musical voice. ‘You've got this whole thing wrong, and as I have nothing to do with it, naturally I feel entitled to introduce myself and plunge into your more private affairs.’” “And what did she say?” Janet asked. “I think she spoke of my nerve,” Leonard told her, “but for once in my life I didn't want to talk about myself. I told her about you. I explained your feelings for David Churchill. I told her about your love for Alice and of how you didn't even want David to be called in. I told her everything, except I had the sense not to tell her that her husband was in love with you. In fact, I told her about 75 per cent of the truth, which is enough for any woman.” “And she? What did she tell you?” Janet asked eagerly. “She gave me rather explicit directions as to where I might go,” he answered. “Then she stopped the car and let me out on the sidewalk. That was that, until just now, when I had the pleasure of entertaining Mrs. Churchill here in the studio, after you had gone out in a nasty, sulky temper. We had quite a chat.” “Are you telling me that Amy Churchill came here while I was out?” Janet asked incredulously. “My natural charm!” “Leonard!” “She came here to call on you—to find out for herself,” Leonard explained. “I told her that you were out shopping—buying your wedding trousseau,” he continued after a dramatic pause. “My wedding trousseau? Then she thinks I am going to marry David—after the divorce?” Janet, completely puzzled, queried. “A little calmness!” he smiled. “Didn't I tell you the divorce was all off? I explained that you were out buying the prettiest wedding dress, because—because you were about to be married to me!” “Leonard!” Janet protested, but now she was laughing.
